2019 REGISTRATION BROCHURE
ASPAN’s 38th National Conference
ASPAN welcomes you to the 38th National Conference at the Gaylord Opryland Hotel and Resort in Nashville, Tennessee, May 5 – May 9, 2019.

Nashville, known as Music City, is home to a variety of entertainment opportunities. The Honky Tonk Highway, downtown Broadway is jam-packed with rooftop lounges and historical venues offering live performances nightly. From traditional country to blues, jazz, and rock, there is something for everyone.

The Ryman Auditorium continues hosting performances and offers backstage tours rich in history of the genre that has made her famous since 1892. For over 30 years, the Ryman was host to The Grand Ole Opry, which is now in its own domain on the Opryland property. Continuing the tradition of over 90 years, The Grand Ole Opry is the longest running broadcast to date. A multitude of museums full of musical history abound in downtown Nashville: The Country Music Hall of Fame, The Music City Walk of Fame, Music Row's RCA Studio B and many more.

For a different look at Music City, take a few hours and try one of the many Nashville City tours: Nashville Distillery Crawl at Marathon Village, Mural Art Tour of Nashville, Civil War & Plantation Tour, Black History Tours of Nashville, Music City Bites and Sites, Taste of Nashville Walking Tour, and Nashville Comedy Singalong Tour.

Check out Soundwaves, the Opryland Resort's newly opened 3-level luxury indoor/outdoor waterpark. Soundwaves offers recreational areas designated for adults, children and families. Golf is available within a few miles of the resort. Two Rivers Golf course offers beautiful views of the Nashville skyline.

Nashville is proud to be the home for several professional sports teams located in the heart of downtown: the Tennessee Titans at Nissan Stadium, the Nashville Predators in Bridgestone Arena, and the Nashville Sounds at First Tennessee Park.

Enjoy your stay in Nashville, home of country music and so much more!

#101 Parkinson’s Disease: Current Medical and Surgical Treatments

More than 10 million people worldwide are living with Parkinson’s disease (PD). This session will present new and emerging treatments including deep brain stimulation (DBS), complementary, and alternative medicine (CAM) and medications that improve quality of life for those with PD. Special emphasis on the pre- and postop care of patients with PD will be explored.

(DC) 1.25 contact hours Regina Torti MSN RN CPAN

#201 Identification and Prevention of Postoperative Respiratory Complications

(DC) 1.25 contact hours Brenda Jahnke MSN RN CNS

#301 To Serve With Heart: Addressing Ethical Challenges Within the Perianesthesia Continuum

Ethical challenges in the delivery of healthcare surround us: patient and family expectations, extremes in patient age, critical access shortages, insurance limitations, escalating costs and limited resources. The core ethical principle guiding nursing practice is to do no harm and per the Code of Ethics for nurses, to promote, advocate for and protect the health, safety and rights of the patient. This session will present the four guiding ethical principles of beneficence, nonmaleficence, justice and autonomy; explore ethical challenges facing perianesthesia nurses today through use of case study analysis; and discuss application of the perianesthesia nursing standards and practice recommendations in the setting of ethical conflict. Key focus areas include advance directives such as ‘do not resuscitate’, informed consent, health care proxy, blood-free treatment, care of the opiate-dependent patient and medical futility and end-of-life choices.

(IC) 1.25 contact hours Maureen McLaughlin MS RN ACNS-BC CPAN CAPA

#401 Transgender Medicine: Changing Paradigms

This session will present transgender as a social, historical, and medical phenomenon with focus on surgical aspects.

(DC) 1.25 contact hours Marci Bowers MD

#501 The Positive Outcomes of Perioperative Patient Warming and Monitoring Core Body Temperatures: One Hospital’s Experience

Preventing inadvertent hypothermia throughout the patient’s perioperative course presents many challenges and potential risks to the surgical patient. This session will present a study that examined: 1) two different methods of obtaining and monitoring of core body temperature; 2) hypothermia rates between patients with an active warming gown to patients who received a cloth gown and warm blankets in the preoperative area; and 3) amount of meperidine doses administered for postoperative rigors in the postanesthesia care unit (PACU) to determine if active preoperative warming decreased our meperidine administration.

(IC) 1.25 contact hours Linda Cunningham BSN RN CNOR, Christine Fournier Bell MSN RN

10:30 AM – 11:45 AM

#601 Delirium Beyond Emergence

Despite improvements in anesthesia, surgical techniques, pharmacology and medical services, delirium remains a serious complication of surgery and presents challenges during recovery and hospitalization. In a confused patient, one of the biggest challenges can be determining if the confusion is caused by a pre-existing delirium or dementia, or if it is affects from anesthesia. While emergence delirium most commonly occurs immediately after anesthesia, delirium after emergence can continue to occur in the postanesthesia care unit and postoperative units. Delirium is associated with increased morbidity and mortality, making it imperative to promote early recognition and implement early prevention and treatment interventions.

(DC) 1.25 contact hours Linda Minnich BSN RN CPAN, Heather Crowder BSN RN CNOR

#102 Heart Failure and Anesthesia: Pathophysiology and Perioperative Management

This session will present perioperative and anesthetist management of patients with chronic heart failure undergoing elective non-cardiac surgery. A review of pathophysiology and recommendations for perioperative evaluation and treatment of heart failure will also be presented.

(DC) 1.25 contact hours Brenda Jahnke MSN RN CNS

#202 Anesthesia Basics

The perianesthesia nurse has an integral role in patient safety along the anesthesia continuum, from preoperative patient optimization to safe transfer of care to home or to the inpatient setting. Knowledge of anesthetic agents and associated complications are essential. This session will present the basics of general and neuroaxial anesthesia and will highlight anesthesia-related complications.

(DC) 1.25 contact hours Maureen McLaughlin MS RN ACNS-BC CPAN CAPA

#302 Malignant Hyperthermia – It’s a Hot Topic

This session will present the disease process of malignant hyperthermia, incidence and treatment. Additionally, information surrounding recent focus on this topic by various regulatory agencies will be discussed, with tips on how you may help your facility be better prepared for a crisis, in or outside of the perioperative area.

(DC) 1.25 contact hours Terri Passig BSN RN CCRN CPAN CAPA

#402 Navigating the Bumps on the Healthcare Road to Adulthood for the Special Needs Child

Medical support and services available to the young special needs child in the pediatric doctor’s office or hospital are often no longer available in the adult medical system, resulting in increased frustration and adverse behaviors. Medical personnel working in adult areas of care need additional training and ways to implement revisions to standard procedures for the diverse special needs patient to be successful. A toolkit of successful strategies that can benefit not only the caregiver but their patients and families will be presented.

(DC) 1.25 contact hours Phyllis Mesko RN CPN

#502 Noise in the Preop Holding Area: Does it Affect Patient Experience?

Noise in a preoperative holding area can be extremely loud at peak times in an ambulatory surgery center environment. This session will present a research study that examined patient noise perception with curtains opened and closed in preoperative holding area bays.

LEADING WITH KNOWLEDGE

DETAILED COURSE DESCRIPTION

#602 Opioid Stewardship In the Perianesthesia Setting: A Collaborative Approach
This session will present the current opioid crisis. It will focus on narcotic-sparing anesthesia and the role of the perianesthesia nurse in the preoperative and postoperative phase. Pain management including alternative methods to narcotic use, current research in this field and the collaborative approach of the perianesthesia team that can lead to successful outcomes will also be presented. (IC) 1.25 contact hours Eric Chaing MD and Antoinette Zito MSN RN CPAN

#104 New Lease on Life: Perioperative Management of Kidney and Pancreas Transplant Recipients
This session will present the perioperative care of kidney and pancreas transplant recipients in a postanesthesia care setting. Transplant indications and contraindications, the listing process, the operative procedure, and postoperative management and potential complications will also be presented. (DC) 1.25 contact hours Jose Sala BSN RN CCRN CNML, Myre Dominica Sale BSN RN CPAN and Ayumi Fielden MSN RN CCRN-K CPAN

#203 Massive Transfusion- It’s More than RBCs! Nursing Considerations for Hemorrhage Management
This session will present current information for providing safe administration of blood products during patient hemorrhage. Information will include recommended ratios of blood products based on lessons learned from managing trauma patients and from lessons learned on the battlefield front lines. Protocol development and strategies to improve outcomes will also be reviewed. (DC) 1.25 contact hours Kelley Kelly MSN RN CAPA VA-BC and Danny Kelly NRP

#204 Non-Operating Room Anesthesia (NORA): Implications for Peri anesthesia Nurses
With the accelerated development of more sophisticated non-operating room procedures, the demand for anesthesia services has dramatically risen to comprise as much as 50% of all anesthetic cases. Anesthesia and anesthesia providers are now a consistent component of the care team in GI suites, interventional radiology, bronchoscopy and even MRI suites. This increased presence of anesthesia in non-operating room locations impacts peri anesthesia nurses in all phases of care. Retrospective reviews of adverse anesthesia-related events have revealed that complications are not uncommon. This session will present the incidence and implications of NORA, studies of anesthesia-related complications from the ASA closed claims database and nursing priorities for this unique patient population. (DC) 1.25 contact hours Maureen McLaughlin MS RN ACNS-BC CPAN CAPA

#303 Regulatory and Accreditation – It’s Really All About Patient Safety
This session will present the various accrediting bodies in the ever-changing healthcare world. They all have one common thread: patient safety. Current regulatory requirements will also be presented. (IC) 1.25 contact hours Terri Passig BSN RN CCRN CPAN CAPA

#304 Family Visitation in the PACU
How does visitation in Phase 1 PACU work? This session will present the current literature about family visitation in PACU. Barriers to implementing a visitation program and suggestions for developing a successful family visitation initiative will also be presented. (IC) 1.25 contact hours Melissa Davidson BSN RN CPAN

#404 Nursing Considerations for the Obstetric Patient in the Perianesthesia World
This lecture will present information about the physiologic changes of pregnancy that place the obstetric patient at high risk for adverse events in procedural areas. Understanding the physiologic changes of pregnancy can help the perianesthesia nurse to anticipate needs and issues to the obstetric patient, and to provide confident early intervention to reduce morbidity in this vulnerable population. #603 Rolling with the Times: Patient/Family Medical Cannabis Education Considerations for the Aging Population
Medical cannabis is currently legalized in 29 states as of May 2018, and the number of states is growing. This medication modality has become one of the choices of patients over the age of 55. Patient/family education for this age group is necessary to close the gap between a LIP medical cannabis recommendation and visiting a dispensary for the first time. (DC) 1.25 contact hours Maridulce Fortuno MS BSN RN CAPA

#604 Bringing Mindfulness to the Care of Children with Neurobehavioral Disorders in the Perianesthesia Arena
Frequently, children with neurobehavioral disorders undergoing surgery are provided the same services as children without unique needs. With the accelerated development of more sophisticated non-operating room procedures, the demand for anesthesia services has dramatically risen to comprise as much as 50% of all anesthetic cases. Anesthesia and anesthesia providers are now a consistent component of the care team in GI suites, interventional radiology, bronchoscopy and even MRI suites. This increased presence of anesthesia in non-operating room locations impacts peri anesthesia nurses in all phases of care. Retrospective reviews of adverse anesthesia-related events have revealed that complications are not uncommon. (IC) 1.25 contact hours: Allan Crescien MSN RN CPN

#206 Simon Says – The Challenge of Caring for Surgical Patients with Alzheimer’s Who Can’t Follow Easy Commands!

The aging of America brings with it an overwhelming increase in the amount of surgical cases presenting with a secondary diagnosis of cognitive impairment. #606 Implementing an Enhanced Recovery After Surgery (ERAS) Protocol to Decrease Length of Stay (LOS) and Opioid Use in Bariatric Surgery Patients

Bariatric surgery has historically been linked with an extensive postoperative length of stay and significant opioid utilization. Enhanced recovery after surgery (ERAS) protocols have been successfully implemented in many surgical populations (e.g., colorectal surgery) and are now being used in bariatric surgery patients. Our institution’s goal was to implement an ERAS protocol to decrease length of stay after primary bariatric surgery and combat the opioid epidemic by decreasing the overall use of opioids. (DC) 1.25 contact hours: Alison Partridge MSN RN CPAN, Ginny Ledbetter MSN RN ACNS-BC
3:45 pm – 5:00 pm

#208 Recognizing and Caring for Victims of Human Trafficking

Trafficking victims live across the U.S. and often are hidden in plain sight. Identifying the victims is the key to stopping the abuse. As perianesthesia nurses, we need to become aware of potential victims of trafficking the same way we would approach someone who may have been a victim of sexual abuse or domestic violence. As healthcare professionals, we have a greater opportunity to intervene because of direct interaction with potential victims, since more frequently, they are being treated for an illness or injury.

Patient learning is multifaceted and highly personal, requiring the use of multiple teaching methodologies and appreciation of different learner types. This session will present the variety of factors that contribute to effective discharge education and its impact on quality of patient care.

(IQ) 1.25 contact hours Stephanie Al-Athdami BSN RN CAPA and Sarah Trandel-Korenchuk BSN RN

#508 Empowering Workplace Safety: An EBP Project to Improve Chemotherapy Use in Perianesthesia Practice

This session will present one hospital's unique perspective on addressing workplace hazards from chemotherapeutic agents in the perianesthesia practice setting. An increase in instillation of Mitomycin after trans-urethral bladder tumor resections prompted a five-month journey using the Plan-Do-Study-Act (PDSA) methodology for quality improvement to revise and refine safe practices for nurses. Through these changes, our perianesthesia department achieved many milestones towards compliance with the new USP 800 guidelines for hazardous medication handling to go into effect in December of 2019.

#608 Minimizing Perioperative Stress by Improving Communication Between Healthcare Providers, Families and Children with Autism Spectrum Disorder: The Linked Program

Preparing children with autism spectrum disorder (ASD) for perioperative procedures can be very difficult as characteristics and behaviors vary widely for each individual. Frustration for families and the patient with ASD, as well as the healthcare staff occurs without a focused, individualized plan addressing these special needs. Utilizing tools such as the Linked “All About Me” Passport and story boards to communicate assists the healthcare team to support the specific needs of each patient, decreasing potential and known stressors.
