Conclusions

- The findings have demonstrated that the pediatric PACU nurses are more confident in identifying true ED.
- Additionally, it showed that they are more aware of the tool used to score delirium and what intervention(s) are the best to implement.
- The documentation piece has taken several months to get built as we have 3rd party vendors to develop most of our screens. Currently we are waiting for the screen to be included in our assessment options. During the study, a verbal reporting of the score was provided to the anesthesia provider. Further studies to determine documentation compliance would be helpful.
